

The Crucible Who's Who?

Abigail Williams: Victim or Villain

Skill

Focus:

Characterization
Archetypes

© Julie Faulkner

SKILLS NOTES: Characterization is the way a character is revealed and developed in a text either indirectly (through his/her own or other characters' words, actions, thoughts) or directly (through what the author/narrator says).

TASK: Complete the organizer below to analyze the character assigned. Be sure to include specific citations and page numbers from the text.

Thoughts, Feelings, Attitudes

Relationships

Key Quote

Problems/Challenges

Personality Traits

Write About It: An archetype is a type of character. One archetype is the villain, which is a stock who acts as an evil foil to the hero's personality and is a main block to his/her journey towards his destiny. Another archetype is the victim. Everyone can relate to the Victim and we love to root for the underdog, the downtrodden and the disadvantaged. Which archetype does Abigail fulfill in this play? Write a paragraph, and use citations from the text to support your answer.

The Crucible Who's Who?

Reverend Parris: Sinner or Saint

Skill

Focus:

Characterization
Archetypes

SKILLS NOTES: Characterization is the way a character is revealed and developed in a text either indirectly (through his/her own or other characters' words, actions, thoughts) or directly (through what the author/narrator says).

TASK: Complete the organizer below to analyze the character assigned. Be sure to include specific citations and page numbers from the text.

Thoughts, Feelings, Attitudes

Problems/Challenges

Relationships

Key Quote

Personality Traits

© Julie Faulkner

Write About It: An archetype is a type of character. One archetype is the villain, which is a stock who acts as an evil foil to the hero's personality and is a main block to his/her journey towards his destiny. Another archetype is the hero. Which archetype does Parris fulfill in this play? He is a sinner or a saint? Write a paragraph, and use citations from the text to support your answer.

The Crucible Who's Who?

Elizabeth: Motherly or Mad

Skill

Focus:

Characterization
Archetypes

© Julie Faulkner

SKILLS NOTES: Characterization is the way a character is revealed and developed in a text either indirectly (through his/her own or other characters' words, actions, thoughts) or directly (through what the author/narrator says).

TASK: Complete the organizer below to analyze the character assigned. Be sure to include specific citations and page numbers from the text.

Thoughts, Feelings, Attitudes

Relationships

Key Quote

Problems/Challenges

Personality Traits

Write About It: An archetype is a type of character. One archetype is the mother figure. The mother archetype is basically an idealized or invented version of a mother that, in most cases, is meant to be more or less universal. Another archetype is the crazy (mad) character. These characters are moody, unstable, and often act without logical reason. Which archetype does Elizabeth fulfill in this play? Write a paragraph, and use citations from the text to support your answer.

The Crucible Who's Who?

John Proctor: Hero or Zero

Skill

Focus:

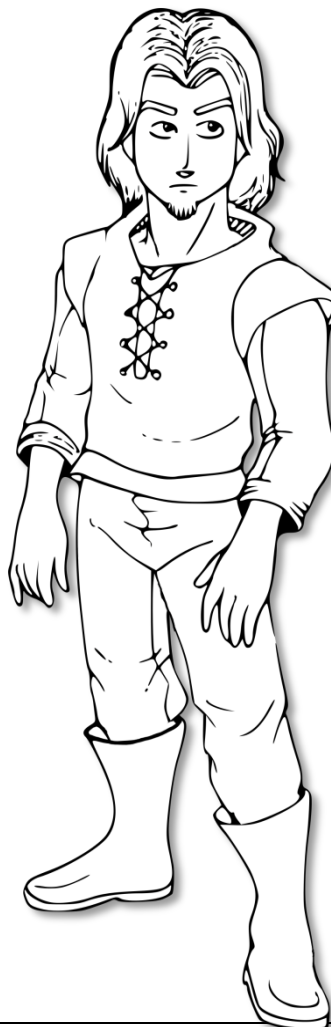

Characterization
Archetypes

SKILLS NOTES: Characterization is the way a character is revealed and developed in a text either indirectly (through his/her own or other characters' words, actions, thoughts) or directly (through what the author/narrator says).

TASK: Complete the organizer below to analyze the character assigned. Be sure to include specific citations and page numbers from the text.

Thoughts, Feelings, Attitudes

Problems/Challenges

Relationships

Key Quote

Personality Traits

© Julie Faulkner

Write About It: An archetype is a type of character. One archetype is the hero, which is a stock character who predominantly exhibits goodness and struggles against evil in order to restore harmony and justice to society. Is Proctor a hero or not?? Write a paragraph, and use citations from the text to support your answer.