You need a hook. You ask me to imagine something, but you don't take me into the scene at all. What am I trying to imagine?

Choose a different type of hook here if you can't describe the situation.

What does this mean? Does it mean that unlike a normal teacher, experience teaches you without complaining? Explain.

~~The idea that challenges make us stronger is good. In order to write an essay about it, you will have to give lots of personal examples. Your essay will also benefit from psychological research that shows that chllanges make people stronger. As you write your essay, think of famous people that have overcome great challenges and use them as exammples. Your hook might even come from a famous person speaking about how they overcame a great challenge. Your thesis needs to be more concise. Also, please learn to use periods—your whole introduction was a single, VEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEERY LONG sentence!~~
